BRIDGETTE MAYER GALLERY

Dina Wind

Welded sculptural assemblages conceived of as drawings in space best describes works by Dina Wind. She gathers discarded objects from scrap metal and junk yards and transforms them into aesthetically pleasing compositions. Wind has exhibited in many group shows in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York and in 1997 her work on view at The State Museum of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, received an Honorable Mention. Wind's sculptures are also represented in corporate and private collections in the Philadelphia area.
